HONGKONG, OCTOBER 6TH 1909.

Rumours have for some time been prevalent of the recall of office of YUAN SHI-KAI. In view of the intense distaste with which he was viewed by the Imperial Family, and more especially by the present EMPRESS DOWAGER, who has always attributed to him the greatest part of the indignities to which the late EMPEROR had to submit, it seemed in the least degree unlikely that the REGENT would agree to his recall. While explaining the causes that led to the dismissal of YUAN, we took care to avoid using towards him the injurious language employed by some of our contemporaries. YUAN is in many respects an able man, and possessed to a larger extent than most Chinese officials of the day of the power of administration; and there is no doubt, in the last days of the late EMPRESS DOWAGER, he did much to restore the damaged reputation of China. Still, withal, and that is possibly the worst of him, he was above all things an opportunist, and so was often led into courses which a man of higher standards of duty would have indignantly disclaimed. The absurd theory, that he in any way represented the Chinese element as opposed to the Manchu, has apparently died a natural death; and the only ground for advising his recall by the present REGENT has been the plea that he abate the other Ministers of the Court had an intelligent acquaintance with foreign affairs, and could be trusted to guide the State in the present rather complicated position of affairs. The position is a characteristic illustration of the ineptness of the present generation of Chinese statesmen, since the rise of YUAN SHI-KAI, not a single official has proved himself capable of grasping the situation, which has been continually becoming more involved; and this in spite of the fact that the REGENT himself has shown every disposition to encourage men of ability to come to the front. To his enemies, of whom he had made many, YUAN's chief characteristic was an over-reaching ambition, and he was even accused at times of aiming at the Throne. There does not seem to be a review of the circumstances to have been any, even plausible, foundation for the charge; but it is quite possible, as has happened in other cases, that the suspicion has engendered the thought. It has seldom happened in the long history of China that a Minister actually in office has raised the standard of revolt; and it is far from likely that such thoughts entered into YUAN's mind till they were suggested by those who were envious of his rapid promotion.

On the other hand, there is no evidence that YUAN ever strove to make use of his influence with the late DOWAGER-EMPERESS to smother the position of the EMPEROR; and it was this that determined the present REGENT, on his assuming the reins of Government, to dismiss him with all outward signs of disgrace. Still, it must be remembered that, contrary to all Oriental precedent, PRINCE CHUN did not inflict any punishment, personal or otherwise, on YUAN SHI-KAI, but treated him exactly as any European Minister who had lost the confidence of his ruler is accustomed to be treated. As a rule it is inadvisable that a Minister who has been dismissed from office under such peculiar circumstances as occurred in this case should be re-employed; and all the more so that the reasons were strictly of a personal nature. YUAN must have felt keenly his supersession, and as, after all, he is but human, it is to be expected that he will continue to bear animosity against the head of the State. Altogether it seems impossible that the two, the REGENT and his dismissed Minister, should ever be so far reconciled as to pull together for the advantage of the Empire; the more especially as the coming back of the Minister, however others may be disposed to look on it, can scarcely, by himself at least, be considered other than a personal victory over the REGENT. There is, besides, another element which, under the Chinese constitution cannot be ignored. The present EMPRESS DOWAGER is an element in the Government which, following immemorial precedent, cannot be ignored; as widow of the late EMPEROR she is the legal guardian of the child who now represents him. We know little of her, and opinions differ as to her capacity for undertaking any important rôle in the State; the one thing that is certainly known of her is, that looking upon YUAN as the agent of the late DOWAGER in the maltreatment of her husband, she is permeated by the most intense hatred for him. However little the REGENT may personally think of her abilities, he has to consult her in all affairs regarding the personality of the new EMPEROR, even though he happens to be his son; so that although personally he might succeed in working harmoniously with YUAN, the presence of the DOWAGER EMPRESS would always act as a powerful element of disorder about affairs where concord is most desirable. We may conceive a similar case had the KAISER WILLIAM II. been compelled by a powerful combination of officials to recall the late PRINCE BISMARCK after his dramatic dismissal. Each measure of State could not have failed to be a subject of dispute between EMPEROR and MINISTER till one or other had succeeded in reducing to insignificance the other. Then YUAN would have returned to office as a second "Mayor of the Palace." All these things are independent of the personal abilities of YUAN himself. We have always been willing to allow that individually YUAN has been all round the ablest of China's Ministers, and this whether we look to his management of home or foreign affairs. No man but he could probably have brought about the recovery of Government in China after the events of 1900; and no man could better have calmed the apprehensions of the foreign Powers as to the future of China. Whatever his attitude towards Reform generally, it was he who first rendered it possible, and it is not unlikely that had he continued in office the task of the REGENT would have been much simplified; so far we are willing to agree with the would-be advisers of the Regency. To restore to power the Minister dismissed in the manner in which YUAN was dismissed is at the best a dangerous experiment, and can only be successful with men of the loftiest moral character. As we have said above, YUAN was above all things an opportunist, and opportunism and political morality of the highest type are hardly consistent. We hope for the sake of China, and of the REGENT, who has up to this proved himself not only an intelligent, but a well-meaning ruler, and whose chief deficiency has been a want of initiative power under extremely difficult circumstances, that he will be able to introduce some semblance of order into his at present very ill-regulated household, and will be able to replace the veteran CHANG CHI-TUNG (whose death was announced after these lines had been written) by someone of the present generation. CHANG CHI-TUNG has all through life borne the character of a loyal and upright Minister, against whom not the most censorious has been able to establish any charge of peculation or unworthy motive. On the other hand, it is well to remember that CHANG has been by no means uniformly successful as an administrator, and has more than once stood in the way of useful measures. Altogether it is not going too far to say that some of the failures charged to the Regency, have in all probability to be laid at the door of the aged statesman, so that his retirement, by throwing more responsibility on the younger Ministers, may in the long run prove advantageous to the administration. All through life old CHANG has been an ardent reformer; but it may be questioned whether the reforms most favoured are those most called for. The most needed, but at the same time difficult, and these requiring the most courage and skill to bring to a successful issue, are those connected with the finances of the Empire: these can only be carried out by an individual entrusted with almost despotic power. No representative assembly that China can call together is equal to the gigantic task; till finance is on a sound basis representative government can be nothing better than a delusion and a snare. Meanwhile, under the specious plea of introducing representative forms, the habit of tendering unsolicited advice, which has been too easily accepted by the Government of the REGENT, has been instrumental in leading it into difficulties with foreign Powers. We may instance the growing tendency of instituting boycotts, especially affected by the so-called "Self-Government Society of Canton" and other kindred institutions, going far to demoralise the whole Empire; while totally irresponsible associations, like that of the Hakkas in most of the provinces, are in default of any regular financial government openly setting the Administration of the Regency at defiance. Probably the only measure capable of restoring good government is the entire abolition, lock, stock, and barrel, of the system. Attempt at reforming or checking it, can only result in the aggravation of the evil.

The English Mail of 4th September was delivered in London on the 2nd inst.

Two new submarines for service in the Philippines were brought to Cavite last week.

Mr. A. J. Mackie, interpreter at the Magistracy, has been transferred to the Supreme Court, where he commences duty to-day.

Mr. W. Moyrick Howlett, H.M. Consul at Changhaia, has been transferred to Kinkiang vice Mr. Werner, who goes home on furlough.

The banns are published of the wedding arranged between Mr. J. H. W. Armstrong and Miss Dora Humphreys, daughter of Mr. W. G. Humphreys, of Hongkong.

"Poker is taboo." Under this heading the Cablenews-American reports the decision of the Manila Court that the game is prohibited by law and that it infringes the provisions of the Municipal Ordinance.

At the Magistracy yesterday aukung was charged before Mr. Wood with attempting to extract a bribe from a hawk, but the defendant was discharged owing to there being insufficient evidence against him.

Father Jose Algue, director of the Manila Observatory and Weather Bureau, is leaving in a few days for Baguio, where he will spend ten days at the Observatory for the purpose of making certain scientific investigations.

Workers in cigar factories at Manila struck for higher wages, having been persuaded to turn out by their Union. The employers, however, stood firm, and decided to close down their factories rather than allow the Union to interfere in the management of their affairs. The strike is now settled.

Three coolies who were caught dumping night-soil into drains at Kowloon were at the Magistracy yesterday fined $15 each.

The return of visitors to the City Hall Library for the week ending the 3rd October, 1909:—Library non-Chinese 377, and Chinese 228. Total 605.

Another typhoon warning came to hand yesterday from the American Consulate-General. The telegram quoted below was received from the Manila Observatory at 1.40 p.m.:—Cyclone or typhoon E.N.E. of Aparri moving W. or W.N.W.

Another stiff fine, says the Manila Cablenews, has been imposed upon an opium smoker in Holo. On his second conviction the defendant was sentenced by the Court of First Instance to pay a fine of 2,000 pesos, or to suffer subsidiary imprisonment.

The Hongkong Steam Launch Company were summoned at the Magistracy yesterday for causing an obstruction by their steam launch Peggy and Premier lying alongside Pottinger Street wharf. They were fined $5 in respect of each offence.

The fines imposed on the gamblers brought before Mr. Hazland at the Magistracy yesterday were not so high as on the previous day. Eleven men from Yauwatt were placed in the dock, and on being convicted the leaders were fined $50 each and the remainder $2 each.

Mr. W. J. Lorington, store-keeper at the Naval Yard and residing at Zetland House reports to the police that between the 2nd inst. and the 4th someone stole from an unlocked drawer in his room two black cheques, which they extracted from his cheque book.

Captain Rodgers, of the steamer Zafiro, which arrived from Manila yesterday, reports having encountered strong winds, with a high head sea and a falling barometer up to the 20th parallel. Thence to port there was a rising barometer with squally weather, a high confused sea and a south-east wind. Captain Rodde, of the Yuen Sang, which vessel arrived here from the same port, also reports that a heavy, confused sea was running.

"Looker-on" writes as follows in the Japan Gazette:—The Penetrating Pierrots of Yokohama should be gratified to note that imitation is the sincerest form of flattery. A Pierrot entertainment, described as "a novelty in Hongkong," was given at the Kowloon Bowling Green on the 11th ult., the idea no doubt originating with members of the Garrison Sporting Team who visited Yokohama a few months ago.

Kao Erh Chieh, the Commissioner for Delimitation in Macao, has wired to the Wai-wan stating that the Portuguese have agreed to cancel some land deeds of certain specified places, and also to deliver possession of the places known as Mo-San, Ko-Lo-Wan and others agreed upon. The Portuguese likewise agree not to interfere with the fishing junks along the Coasts. Under these circumstances, His Excellency believes that the settlement of this dispute will soon be amicably adjusted.

A farewell reception to Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Williams, U. S. Consul-General at Tientsin, was held on the eve of their departure. Americans had subscribed to purchase a piece of silver-plated as a souvenir for Mr. and Mrs. Williams to take away with them from Tientsin, and the presentation of this took place at the reception. The souvenir consisted of a very handsome silver tea service with tray, made in Canton, and handsomely engraved with Chinese and Buddhist designs and characters. It was subscribed for by the Americans of Tientsin and Peking. Dr. Cook made the presentation.

A smart recovery of a watch and chain by the police was disclosed in a case heard at the Magistracy yesterday. A Chinese returned from Annam had gone down to She-tou-tai the other evening and when he returned, after having dined well, to his boarding house he went to bed, after having hung up his vest containing his watch and chain near the bed. His friend came in later and hung up his vest beside the other and went upstairs for a smoke. When he came down he saw that the watch and chain were missing. He gave the alarm and next day the matter was reported to the police. On Sunday a man took the watch and chain to a pawnbroker's, but becoming alarmed at the questions of the pawnbroker he decamped, leaving the articles. The pawnbroker took the watch and chain to the police, who accompanied the man to the boarding house, where the pawnbroker discovered the man who left the watch and chain with him. He blamed it on another, and an arrest was made.

HARMSTON'S CIRCUS.

Harmston's tent at West Point was well patronised last night and an excellent performance was witnessed. That the spectators appreciated the clever juggling of the Kavanagh Brothers, the daring cycling feats of the Brothers Sidney, and the other expert turns included in a lengthy programme was made abundantly plain. The circus is well worth seeing, for the performance is an improvement even on the excellent programme provided by Harmston's on the occasion of their last visit.

There will be a matinee starting at four this afternoon, and another on Saturday afternoon.

Their Highnesses will pay an official visit to the British Royal Family, and will then travel in France, Germany, Italy, Austria, Belgium, Switzerland, Netherlands, and Russia, returning to London, whence they will proceed to America and make a call at the White House on President Taft. THE OPIUM FARM.

We learn from an authentic source that the tender of Ho Shai Kit, amounting to $98,500 for the three years' lease of the Hongkong Opium Farm, has been accepted by the Hongkong Government. Mr. Ho Shai Kit is the son of Mr. Ho Kom Tong, who is associated with several well-known local gentlemen in the formation of a strong syndicate to carry on the farm. The accepted tender was the second highest, being only $150 a month less than the offer of Ku Yu-shan, Leung Kin-sung and Ng Ming Sang, while it was $2,600 higher than the tender of the present Farmer, Mr. Luk Yau. The other tender was from Mr. She Ying-luk, amounting to $91,000. The government revenue from the farm in the next three years will therefore be $268,800 per annum less than the present rental.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

A DYING THAT SPEAKS—ELECTRIC POWER FROM THE WIND—BUILDING UP SOYER, FACES —THE COMET THAT STRUCK THE MARCH——THE EYE MAGNET—AT EARTHQUAKE RE-CORDER FOR AUTOMOBILES—THE LATEST WORD ON SNAKE POISONS—ANNUAL STRATA IN GEOLOGY.

In the novel telephonic experiments of Prof.
W. Poukett, of Brunswick, Germany, magnets, alternating-current transformers and even dynamoes have been made to talk, without the use of vibrating plates or membranes. A core of soft iron enclosed in a coil in a microphone circuit was at the same time surrounded by a second coil of wire traversed by direct current, and was thus kept constantly magnetized while subjected to the feeble variations of the microphone circuit. Words spoken into the microphone were reproduced by the magnetized iron so loudly as to be heard several yards. Trying the dynamo, the field magnets were excited by a special continuous current, and the microphone circuit was applied to the brushes. Both speech and song delivered before the microphone were reproduced by the dynamo so clearly as to be distinctly heard in a good-sized hall.

If the wind blowing over London to a height of 500 feet could be harnessed, Sidney Ransom estimates, it would do work equivalent to that of a steam engine of half a million horse-power, working day and night. Wind turbines can be used for many purposes, are simple to erect, and do not usually require towers more than 50 feet high. In Germany a wind power electric generating equipment has been brought out.
No attention is needed except to reduce the sail area of the wind wheel in storms, a storage battery stores the excess current from the dynamo until needed, and a special regulator automatically keeps at constant pressure the current supplied for house-lighting or driving small farm or other machines.

Besides a striking improvement in stature and health, boys taken from London streets for the British navy have shown a remarkable change in the shape and expression of the face.
Dr. Robbins curiously attributes this development to growth of the lower jaw brought about by the chewing made necessary by the "salt junk" and other navy rations.

The theory that a large comet collided with the earth just 880 years ago appears to Prof.
W. N. Pickering as quite plausible. Geologists reached the conclusion that the now famous crater near Coon Butte, Arizona, is the scar left by a great fall of meteoric matter, and the fact that seven of the ten largest known meteorites have been found within 900 miles of this place suggests that all have been scattered fragments from the same fall. They are similar masses of iron and nickel weighing from three to twenty tons each. Geological evidence at Coon Butte indicates that the collision occurred less than 500 years ago, and stunted cedars growing in the crater show by their annual rings that the time must have been at least 700 years ago.
Annals of Cairo, Egypt, seem to place the date in August 1029. The record mentions a great meteoric shower, such as might be witnessed over the earth on collision with a comet, and there was not only a brilliant light but a great noise, in contrast with the stillness of other meteoric showers that have been known.

The type of powerful electro-magnet that is being used in many English hospitals for removing iron and steel particles from the eye has a core of the best Swedish soft iron, three feet long and six inches in diameter, which is wound with 200 rounds of insulated wire in two coils.
The threaded end of the magnet is adapted to receive terminals of shapes varied to suit special cases. Mounted on ball bearings, the magnet can be moved easily in any direction and a special form for reclining patients is geared so as to be tilted by a hand crank. A rheostat varies the strength of the magnet, which, at the maximum, exerts a pull of 30 pounds per square inch at a distance of one inch.

A seismograph registering the jolts of a motor vehicle was a novel exhibit by Hon. R. C.
Parsons at a late soiree of the London Royal Society. The apparatus consists of a weight carried by the horizontal arm of a bell-crank lever, the other arm of which is connected to a link holding a pencil against a paper-covered revolving drum. Jolts displace vertically the point of suspension of the bell-crank lever, giving an angular movement that is recorded by a horizontal motion of the pencil on the paper of the drum. The record gives an indication of the movements of the car-body by obstacles or depressions in the road.

Two classes of snake poisons are recognized by Dr. Calmette, Director of the Pasteur Institute at Lille. The venoms of the cobra, banyan and other serpents of the East have a powerful action upon the nervous system; but the poisons of such snakes as the cerastes rattlesnake and adder have more strictly localized effects. An old error is the idea that the poison is only fatal when it is taken into the veins. When taken into the stomach in insufficient doses, its action is very powerful, and sucking poison from a bite is not without serious danger. Another common mistake is the belief that snakes are immune to the poison of other snakes. Dr. Calmette's experiments have shown that rattlesnake poison will kill cobras, and that it is only bites from their own species that snakes can bear without injury. If injected promptly, certain chemicals—such as perma-ngenate of potassium, chloride of gold, chloride of lime and chromic acid—have considerable value as antidotes. The only really effective remedy, however, has proven to be a serum produced by successive inoculations of rabbits, guinea pigs, or, preferably, horses, and the efficiency of this is almost certain if used within two hours after the bite.

A new geological time indicator has been brought to notice by Baron G. de Geor, of Stockholm. Deposits of laminated clay have been found in lowlands bordering the Baltic, and it is supposed that the alternating bands of dark and light have had an origin comparable to that of the rings of trees, which they resemble. The days seem to have been laid down by sub-glacial streams during the retreat of the ice-sheet at the close of the glacial period. It is concluded that the dark clay, with its greater vegetable matter, was deposited in autumn and winter, that the light clay was washed down by the melting ice and snow in spring, and that the summer clay was the summer deposit.

As the ice border receded, the clay record extended further inland and north.

A permanently self-luminous watch-dial and military night compass was a late exhibit in London by C. E. S. Phillips. The glass dial has figures on the upper surface, and are backed with a radium bromide compound. The figures stand out very clearly at night.
